Copy element types

This plugin allows us to copy selected element types from another .rvt project file

- Start 'copy elements' from the ribbon
- You will be prompted to select a .rvt file

- In the dialogue that appears tick the categories that you want to copy from, this will result in a filtered list of element types. You also get to see a preview of the element types
- You can also type directly part of the name that you want to filter on, this will also have an immediate effect on the list
- Select the element types you want to copy from the grid
- Press OK and they will be added to the current project file
